Hi thought id start proceedings in here.....

i have 2 goldfish, charles and camilla... (o/h's names not mine)

we have them in a 35 litre Biube, i know some people dont like biubes but its been perfect for us. enough space for the fishys and the water has been as clear as gin with minimal maintainance. feed them on hikari staple...

So whos next??? :lol:

One solitary goldfish :(

I've had him for a year now. He's called Rex because I thought it would be funny to give him a dog's name.

Always been really keen to get into tropicals but every time I even think about it I'm reminded how much effort needs to go into getting everything right for them.

I have a hexagonal tank and keep tropical fish. Not sure how many litres off the top of my head. At the moment I have 3 leopard guppies,3 cobra guppies and 7 cardinal tetra. Will be buying more soon. :)

Have had to restock my tank recently owing to a wonky heater accident. :(

PS. None of my fish have names. Is that mean?

Yes it is mean - especially if you have 'cobra guppies' that sounds like one BAAAAD ASS fish! They deserve names like 'Crusher' or 'Spider'.
